Mayflower, Arkansas

Mayflower, Arkansas, is a small but growing city located about 20 miles north of Little Rock, with a population of approximately 2,400. Known for its access to nature parks, local restaurants, and small businesses, Mayflower offers both a welcoming community and convenient proximity to the Little Rock metro. The housing market remains healthy and stable, and the city continues to maintain a lower-than-average crime rate, making it a safe and desirable place to live and work.

Strategically positioned along Interstate 40, Mayflower benefits from its location between Little Rock to the south and Conway to the north—two of Central Arkansas’ most dynamic economic hubs. The completion of the Highway 89 overpass has significantly improved traffic flow and connectivity, making the area more accessible for residents, commuters, and businesses alike. New commercial projects are underway in Mayflower, including the recently opened Family Market convenience store, which is creating jobs and expanding retail options. Additionally, a newly opened Valero convenience store highlights the area’s momentum in retail development.
