PROPERTY SUMMARY

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The property boasts a clean, flexible layout and can be potentially delivered vacant, making it ideal for both owner-users and investors. The 200-foot by 100-foot building is part of a multi-tenant structure with seven commercial units and includes curb parking, and street designated truck loading and unloading, making it a highly accessible and versatile asset in one of Brooklyn's most active commercial corridors.

LOCATION OVERVIEW

Situated in the heart of Sunset Park, one of Brooklyn's most vibrant and culturally diverse neighborhoods, 228 46th Street benefits from strong foot traffic and a dense, active consumer base along nearby Fifth Avenue and 8th Avenue. With convenient access to the D, N, and R subway lines and direct proximity to the B.Q.E. and I-278, the property offers exceptional connectivity for both customers and businesses, making it a well-positioned destination for a wide range of commercial uses.

LOCATION OVERVIEW

SUNSET PARK

Sunset Park’s waterfront is undergoing a massive transformation, led by the expansion of Steiner Studios and the “MADE Bush Terminal” campus into a 500,000-sq-ft media, garment, and manufacturing hub. Development is focused on renovating historic industrial buildings for creative industries, building new public waterfront parks, and opening a new music venue. The Brooklyn-based studio is establishing a massive 500,000-sq-ft film/TV hub at the “Made in New York” campus (south part of Bush Terminal), which will include eight soundstages and bring over 2,000 jobs.

Work is underway to transform Pier 6 into a recreational waterfront oasis, and to create 5 acres of landscaped public plazas. A new dynamic music and arts venue operated by the team behind “Public Records” is coming to Building A at the MADE campus, expected to open in late 2026.

POINTS OF INTEREST

- Sunset Park
- Industry City
- Green-Wood Cemetery
- Brooklyn’s Chinatown (8th Avenue)
