Executive Summary

Edmonds, Washington, located in Snohomish County, is a city with a rich history and a strong connection to Puget Sound.

- Location and Accessibility: Situated approximately 15 miles north of Seattle and 18 miles southwest of Everett, Edmonds is part of the Seattle metropolitan area. It's easily accessible via three major highways (SR-99, SR-104, and SR-524), the state ferry system (with a route to Kingston on the Kitsap Peninsula), and the Sounder commuter train which connects it to Everett and Seattle.
- Economy and Demographics: The city's economy is diverse, encompassing industries like technology, aerospace, retail, healthcare, and tourism. The service sector dominates the employment base, with retail and education also contributing significantly.
- Arts and Culture: Edmonds is a major center for the arts in Snohomish County. It boasts a dozen galleries and art facilities, a public arts program with outdoor installations and flower pole structures, and the Edmonds Center for the Arts which hosts performances and concerts. The annual Edmonds Arts Festival is a major event, drawing 75,000 visitors and featuring 200 artists. Edmonds was recognized as Washington's first creative district in 2018.
- Education: The Edmonds School District serves Edmonds and surrounding communities like Lynnwood, Mountlake Terrace, and Woodway. It has 34 schools, including elementary, middle, and high schools, as well as alternative programs. Edmonds College offers a variety of educational programs, including cutting-edge AI and Data Science programs, featuring a dedicated lab with high-power computing and VR/AR technology. The college aims to provide accessible and high-quality education aligned with industry needs.
