Suite 300 at The Ten Coburg represents a rare opportunity to acquire or occupy a fully built-out ambulatory surgical facility in one of Eugene's most visible medical locations. The space is ready for immediate use by a surgical or medical group, whether as an owner-user or qualified tenant.

The Ten Coburg sits at the base of the Ferry Street Bridge on Coburg Road, one of Eugene's primary north-south corridors, carrying traffic counts in excess of 50,000 vehicles per day. The site offers convenient freeway access and sits within view of Autzen Stadium and the Willamette River — a rare and recognizable outlook for a Eugene medical building. Over 221,000 people live within a five-mile radius of the property.

Built in 2009 and designed by TBG Architecture, The Ten Coburg is a three-story Class A medical condominium building. Suite 300 occupies the entire top floor consisting of 9,772 square feet, most recently home to Renew Institute, an accredited office-based surgery center. The suite is fully improved for surgical use: eight exam rooms, two large general-use rooms, a reception and business office area, and six restrooms on the clinical side, alongside two full-size ambulatory-surgery-ready operating suites complete with lead walls, medical gas outlets, HEPA HVAC with positive pressure, a dedicated control room, men's and women's locker rooms with showers, and a post anesthesia care unit (PACU). The suite has its own private ADA-compliant elevator access, backup generator power, and access-controlled entry.

For a surgical or physician group ready to put down roots, Suite 300 offers a significant head start over new construction. The facility is already built, use-ready, and situated within an established medical building alongside an OB-GYN practice, a clinical lab, primary care, and dental. The specialized nature of the buildout makes this a distinctive opportunity for prospective buyers and tenants alike.

Eugene, Oregon

Eugene, one of Oregon's largest cities, anchors the southern Willamette Valley and serves as a major economic, educational, and cultural center for the region. Home to the University of Oregon, Eugene combines the amenities of an established employment base with abundant outdoor recreation and a strong quality of life. Its diverse economy is supported by education, healthcare, professional services, manufacturing, and technology.

Strategically located along Interstate 5, Eugene offers convenient access to Portland, Salem, and markets throughout the West Coast. Highway 126 connects the Eugene-Springfield metropolitan area, while Amtrak service and Eugene Airport provide additional regional and national connectivity. Major commercial corridors, including Coburg Road, Franklin Boulevard, and West 11th Avenue, support a broad mix of retail, medical, office, and service uses.

Healthcare and education remain important economic drivers, anchored by the University of Oregon and an established network of hospitals, clinics, specialty practices, and medical providers. The city's identity is further strengthened by major destinations such as Autzen Stadium, home of Oregon Ducks football and one of the region's most recognizable landmarks. Combined with Eugene's extensive parks and trail system, vibrant downtown, and proximity to outdoor recreation, the city offers an attractive environment for businesses, medical providers, and owner-users seeking a long-term presence in the southern Willamette Valley.
