REGIONAL OVERVIEW

Tri-Cities is located in Southeastern Washington and provides over 300 days of sunshine annually. Situated along the confluence of the Columbia, Snake, and Yakima Rivers, the area provides a wide variety of recreational activities including world-class fishing, golf, boating, water-skiing and paddling, hunting, bike trails, hiking trails, and parks. For the 52nd year, Tri-Cities will host the Water Follies Columbia Cup Hydroplane race. Thousands of spectators will line the shores of the Columbia River the last full weekend in July to watch the world's fastest boats and air show.

Tri-Cities is also in the heart of Washington States' wine country. In recent years, Tri-Cities has become a large player in the state's booming wine industry and boasts over 200 wineries within a 50-mile radius, contributing over $1 billion to the economy. Due to the local climate and geography, local winemakers produce some of the finest wines in the world.

In early 2025, many commercial projects were put on hold due to economic uncertainty, but they are now being reactivated. Developers and clients who delayed plans because of high interest rates and inflation are moving forward aggressively in 2025. Current ongoing projects are highlighted below:

- Versova, one of the country's largest egg producers, is moving into the former Reser's building.
- Washington Energy is in the process of leasing 425 acres in Richland for a clean energy park.
- Atlas Agro is planning to build a $1.3 billion fertilizer plant in Richland.
- The Department of Energy is considering different sites for data centers that power AI.
- The Kennewick Three Rivers Convention Center expansion is expected to generate substantial economic activity and draw incremental commercial demand beyond the immediate site. The approved project will add 115,000 sq ft —with completion expected in late 2026. This expansion is projected to draw about 200,000 attendees annually, generating 70,000 hotel room nights per year.
