PHOENIX OVERVIEW

DEMOGRAPHICS

The population of Greater Phoenix is 5.0 million and is expected to grow to nearly 6.4 million (a 25% increase) in the next 20 years. A relatively young region, Greater Phoenix has a median age of 36.1 - two years younger than the national average. The population boasts comparatively high-earnings, with an average household income of over $62,609. This is 6% above the national median average household income, which stands at $59,039.

EMPLOYMENT/ECONOMY

The Metro Phoenix employment base has grown rapidly in the past 20 years and currently boasts more than two million workers. Projected employment by occupation shows continued strength in the area's professional and technical workforce, with service employment increasing as well.

A steady influx of new workers and high graduation levels from the state's largest university, Arizona State University, enrich the quality of labor. Thanks to the variety of universities and technical schools in the area, the pipeline of skilled workers continues to grow.

“CALIFORNIA EFFECT” BOLSTERS PHOENIX MARKET

The L.A. County and Inland Empire industrial markets combine to be the largest industrial market in the U.S. at 1.1 BSF and 594 MSF, respectively. These California markets are 1.1% and 0.7% vacant and virtually out of any available space. The extreme low vacancy rates have pushed rental rates to record levels which has helped drive tenants into the Arizona market. In addition to the cost and difficulty of finding quality space, the regulatory and general business environment in California has driven many tenants to more business friendly states, such as Arizona.

LOCATION HIGHLIGHTS

- Proximity to Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport, Arizona State University, and abundant amenities.
- Less than six hours to the Ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles. San Diego, Las Vegas, Tucson, Albuquerque, El Paso, and the Mariposa Point of Entry are all within a one-day truck drive.
- Shipping costs from Greater Phoenix to California are up to 75% lower than other Mountain West markets.
