

DEAN STREET

AVAILABLE OFFICE SUITES

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPEN-PLAN WORKSPACE IN THE HEART OF SOHO

77 Dean Street is a three floor townhouse in the heart of Soho providing open-plan office space at its very best.

Built around 1730 by renowned carpenter developer Thomas Richmond, this Grade II listed townhouse blends period character with modern workspace design. Its story spans centuries of craftsmanship and creativity, from piano maker Thomas Tomkinson in 1799 to the iconic food producers Crosse & Blackwell through the 19th and early 20th centuries.

Today, 77 Dean Street continues that legacy.

AVAILABLE SPACE: 3RD FLOOR

The third floor at 77 Dean Street offers a striking open-plan workspace defined by its impressive vaulted ceiling, exposed timber beams, and beautiful wood floors throughout. This is a rare opportunity to occupy a floor that blends historic Grade II listed features with the practical requirements of modern creative businesses.

The space showcases original period details, including elegant fireplaces, crittall-style windows, and the warm texture of exposed structural beams. With windows on both sides of the floor, the office benefits from excellent natural light and a sense of openness that enhances productivity.
