Above-Standard Capacity

Nexus at Spring Hill is served by institutional-grade utility infrastructure—purpose-sized for the demands of large-scale industrial, manufacturing, technology, and corporate campus users.

POWER: TVA/MTE

10 MW

AVAILABLE TODAY

20+ MW

NEAR-TERM SCALE

TVA power via MTE. Existing 500 & 161 KV lines cross all pads. Flexible substation siting accelerates time-to-power for any use type.

SEWER

CAPACITY BY 2027

2028

FURTHER EXPANSION

200,000 GPD of dedicated sewer allocation in place by 2027 —above typical industrial requirements. Additional capacity via TDEC-approved program in 2028.

FIBER CONNECTIVITY

Dual Path

ROUTE DIVERSITY

3-4mi

TO SITE

Carrier-diverse fiber routes within 3–4 miles east and west via I-65 — enabling redundant connectivity for mission-critical operations.

WATER & NATURAL GAS

40,000-256,000 GPD

WATER SERVICE

Secured

NATURAL GAS

Maury County Water and Atmos Energy provide water and natural gas to all development areas. Gas capacity supports high technology loads, plus continuous industrial, manufacturing, and cooling operations.

Zoning & Entitlements

By-Right PD — Any Non-Residential Use

Technology, manufacturing, R&D, corporate HQ, office campus, and logistics are all permitted by right — no special use permits required.

Supportive Local Municipality

Strong local support from elected officials and city staff for large-scale development of all types.

120’ Clear Height Permitted

Zoning allows for up to 120’ clear height, accommodating all standard hyperscale technology and manufacturing configurations.

Utility Infrastructure

Power: TVA / MTE

Tennessee Valley Authority power via MTE transmission. Existing 500 & 161 KV lines to nearly all pads. Flexible substation siting.

Water, Sewer & Gas

200K GPD sewer capacity in 2027, expanding 2028 via TDEC-approved program. City water and natural gas secured to all development areas.

Fiber Access

Multiple carrier-diverse fiber routes within 3–4 miles east and west via the I-65 corridor, enabling redundant connectivity.

Positioned to Perform

Nexus at Spring Hill delivers a rare combination of connectivity, efficiency, workforce access, and cost advantage—positioning occupiers to operate faster, reach further, and grow strategically.
