AREA OVERVIEW – LITTLE HAVANA

One of the most popular businesses is a bar and live music venue called Ball and Chain. The storied bar has become a main attraction. It originally opened in 1935 and once hosted the likes of Billie Holiday, Count Basie and Chet Baker. The property went through different owners during the following decades until the mid 1990s when the building stood empty. Fuller and his partners acquired the space and reopened it in 2014, after extensive renovations.

Adjacent to the Ball and Chain is an ice cream shop called Azucar, which always seems to have a queue going through the door. Cuban-American owner Suzanne Battle was a banker for 20 years until the Great Recession. Growing up, she and her family would have ice cream every night, so opening an ice cream shop seemed like a no brainer. The world famous Julio Cabrera and long time friend, Chef Michelle Bernstein, team up to bring Cafe La Trova to the heart of Little Havana, where the main goal is to provide one of the most fun, delicious and memorable evenings out in Miami.
