The Little Italy sign hangs prominently over India Street, the main commercial corridor, which is alive with restaurants, small cafés, boutiques, galleries, specialty, antique and home design shops and abundant public art, as well as a number of high end day spa-salons.

The sloping landscape at the northern edge of San Diego Bay was once home to a highly successful tuna fishing industry and the many Italian families who derived their living from the coastal waters. The unique streetscape now comprises a lively urban village with single family homes, condominiums and apartments.

Centered between San Diego International Airport and Santa Fe Depot Train Station, Little Italy is a convenient location for visitors. In addition to seasonal events such as the Summer Film Festival and Summer Concerts, the neighborhood also hosts a variety of annual arts and holiday festivals, including Art Walk and Festival.

VISIT

Since 1938, the County Administration Center has stood on the San Diego Bay welcoming residents and visitors alike, symbolizing the highest aspirations and ideals of public service. The newly constructed Waterfront Park is the most significant waterfront open space in downtown San Diego and fulfills a vision decades in the making, positioning it as a quintessential destination for residents and visitors alike. Amici Park, lined with cypress trees and featuring a bocce ball court, adjoins the rebuilt Washington Elementary School, providing a playground for students and open space for the community.

When you are craving authentic pizza, pasta, gelato and other Italian favorites, Little Italy is where it can all be found. In addition to a weekly farmers market, known as the Mercado, Little Italy is also home to a number of Italian grocery stores where authentic imported goods can be found seven days a week.
