AREA OVERVIEW

SAN PEDRO AREA OVERVIEW

San Pedro continues to emerge as one of the most compelling long-term investment markets in Southern California, driven by massive public and private redevelopment efforts, expanding waterfront amenities, and continued infrastructure investment tied to the Port of Los Angeles.

Over $500 million in private capital has been committed toward the waterfront redevelopment, transforming the area with new dining, entertainment, retail, hospitality, and public space improvements.

Additionally, the Ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach recently secured approximately $140 million in federal funding for major infrastructure and port-related improvements.

A centerpiece of the redevelopment is the new waterfront promenade, which will run parallel to the Port of Los Angeles' main channel for approximately one mile, connecting directly to the new town square at 6th Street and Harbor Boulevard. The project will add four acres of public open space featuring landscaping, seating, lighting, and pedestrian-friendly improvements designed to increase tourism and foot traffic throughout downtown San Pedro.

The area is also benefiting from several major mixed-use and housing developments, including the redevelopment of the former San Pedro Courthouse site into a new eight-story residential and retail project, as well as the large-scale expansion of the Rancho San Pedro community, which is planned to include up to 1,390 residential units along with retail, restaurant, and community space.

With ongoing redevelopment, expanding amenities, strong port-related employment, and continued investment throughout the Harbor Area, San Pedro remains one of the most promising multifamily investment markets in Los Angeles.
