FourFortyFour South Flower

FourFortyFour South Flower, formerly Citigroup Center, is a 48-story skyscraper at 444 South Flower Street in the Bunker Hill area of downtown Los Angeles, California. At the time of its completion, in 1981, the tower was the fifth-tallest in the city. The structure was developed by the Rockefeller Group and designed by Albert C. Martin & Associates.

FourFortyFour South Flower is home to one of the largest public art collections in Los Angeles. When the building was constructed, five internationally recognized artists were enlisted to create public works that are represented throughout the gallery.

Shoshone (1981) by Mark DiSuvero. One of DTLA's largest public art installations.
