LinkedIn Cities on the Rise 2025: The 25 fastest-growing U.S. metros for jobs and new talent

LinkedIn News

19,617,457 followers

July 15, 2025

Investing in your career can also mean changing your zip code. Nearly half (46%) of U.S. workers now live far from where they grew up, with many citing career growth as a driving force, according to recent LinkedIn survey data.

But that doesn't mean you have to move to a large city to find opportunity. In today's economy, companies are expanding beyond big-city headquarters to tap into more affordable markets and deep talent pools — and workers are following.

That's where our inaugural list of Cities on the Rise comes in. We analyzed LinkedIn's exclusive labor market data to identify 25 emerging metro areas where hiring is accelerating, job postings are surging and talent migration is reshaping local economies.

The ranking spotlights mid-size U.S. cities with vibrant job markets and growing professional communities — from Boise's (No. 2) advanced manufacturing industry to booming tech and healthcare sectors in Nashville (No. 9) and Wilmington (No. 12).

Check out this year's list of the 25 Cities on the Rise in the U.S. — and join the conversation using #CitiesOnTheRise.

Why Grand Rapids is on the rise: A growing tech scene and booming insurance industry are helping Grand Rapids redefine its industrial identity while drawing a wave of young professionals thanks to its growing job market, bustling downtown and proximity to Lake Michigan.

Top industries hiring: Manufacturing, Healthcare, Professional Services | Top employers: Corewell Health, Grand Valley State University, Meijer
Average income: $65,235 | Average home listing price: $524,195

Local hotspots: Bookstores and cinemas rank among the top destinations for Grand Rapids residents, reflecting a strong local interest in culture and entertainment.

ABOUT HOLLAND, MICHIGAN

700 & 734 South Waverly Road is located in the heart of the commercial district in the southeast corner of Holland, MI. Nestled along the shores of Lake Macatawa as it meets the Lake Michigan, Holland is split between Ottawa and Allegan Counties, with Downtown and the Waverly property both in Ottawa County. The city is part of the Grand Rapids-Wyoming, MI Combined Statistical Area, the second largest in Michigan, with a 2020 Census Estimated Population of 1,486,055. The Grand Rapids metropolitan area is part of the Great Lakes Megalopolis containing an estimated 54 million people.

Holland's downtown is listed in the National Register of Historic Places. It is also a thriving modern city with a diverse economy that includes manufacturing, agriculture, tourism, and higher education. It is home to a number of prominent companies, including Herman Miller, Haworth, Magna International, and Adient, formerly known as Johnson Controls. In 2022, LG Energy Solutions, the South Korean based battery maker, announced it had selected Holland, MI as the site for a $1.7 Billion investment and expansion of its local facility, which will create 1,200 new jobs.

Settled in 1847 by Dutch Calvinist separatists, Holland has a large percentage of citizens of Dutch American heritage. It is home to Hope College and Western Theological Seminary, institutions of the Reformed Church in North America. The city attracts thousands of visitors each year for its annual Tulip Time Festival, which celebrates the area's Dutch heritage and vibrant tulip fields. Holland is known as the "City of Churches." There are around 140 churches in the greater Holland area. The city's primary shopping district is centered along 8th Street, the city's main street downtown.

U.S. 2020 Census Population for Holland was 34,368, up 4% from 2010. There are 12,671 Households in the City with 2.39 persons per Household. The Median value of owner-occupied housing units is $212,900, with a Median Gross Rent of $1,065. One third of Holland's residents (age 25+) hold a Bachelor's Degree or higher, with a Median Household Income of $69,152.

Holland residents enjoy a high quality of life, with abundant opportunities for civic engagement, recreation, education and job satisfaction. In 2010, Holland was ranked the second healthiest/happiest town in the United States by the Well-being Index; and in 2013, Farmer's Insurance named the Holland/Grand Haven Area the most secure mid-sized city in the United States. In 2006, CNN Money named Holland as one of the top five places to retire in the United States.
