EAST VALLEY CITY WITH ADVANCING INDUSTRIAL CORRIDORS

Mesa, the third-largest city in Arizona, has evolved into a magnet for high value industrial, aerospace, and clean tech investment. The city's location along key freeway and rail corridors, plus its proximity to Phoenix-Mesa Gateway Airport, makes it a powerful base for manufacturing and distribution. Recent announcements include Magna/Waymo's autonomous vehicle plant and Komatsu's new $80 million mining operations center.

CLEAN TECH & RESEARCH-DRIVEN INVESTMENT CLIMATE

Mesa is also investing in next gen sustainability, with companies like Cyclic Materials bringing rare earth recycling to the area. The city is diversifying further with new office, flex, and healthcare projects, and supports these with proactive infrastructure funding, including multi-million-dollar water and energy upgrades. With population growth and ASU's Polytechnic campus drawing a skilled labor base, Mesa continues to accelerate in both scale and sophistication.
