The Northland

Platte County, home to The Shops at Boardwalk in Kansas City's "Northland", leads Missouri in population growth at over 14%. This trend is set to continue with extensive residential development planned. As Missouri's second most affluent county, Platte boasts nearly 40% of households earning six figures or more.

The Shops at Boardwalk offers a varied tenant mix, featuring fitness centers, clothing stores, specialty shops, service providers, and both quick-service and sit-down restaurants. Nearby retail giants Walmart, Lowes, and Target attract substantial customer traffic from a broad area. The center's distinctive brick and stone design, complemented by ambient music and attractive landscaping, creates an upscale, boutique atmosphere that distinguishes it from other local retail destinations.
