REGIONAL OVERVIEW

EXPONENTIAL POPULATION GROWTH

The Raleigh-Durham-Research Triangle region continues to be one of the fastest-growing areas in the country. The combined statistical area now exceeds 2.4 million residents and has added more than 240,000 people since 2020. Wake County remains the region's largest and fastest-growing county, with a population of approximately 1.25 million and growth of roughly 66 new residents per day, driven largely by domestic and international migration.

DIVERSIFIED EMPLOYMENT BASE

The Triangle's continued success is supported by a diverse and highly educated workforce. The region has seen significant growth in residents with college degrees in recent years, reinforcing its reputation as a talent hub. In the Raleigh metro area, more than 50% of adults hold a postsecondary degree, well above state and national averages, helping attract employers across technology, life sciences, healthcare, and advanced manufacturing sectors.

INNOVATION

Anchored by Duke University, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and North Carolina State University, the Triangle remains a leading center for research, innovation, and entrepreneurship. Research Triangle Park (RTP)—one of the largest research parks in the United States—includes: 385+ companies and startups, 55,000+ employees, and a strong focus on life sciences, tech, and advanced research industries.

QUALITY OF LIFE

The Triangle offers a high quality of life supported by a relatively moderate cost of living compared to other major tech markets, strong healthcare systems, and abundant recreational opportunities. Centrally located between the Blue Ridge Mountains and the Atlantic Coast, the region provides easy access to outdoor recreation, while a mild climate allows for year-round activity.

TOP BUSINESS CLIMATE

Consistently ranked among the nation's best places to do business, the Triangle benefits from a strong economic base and continued corporate investment. Major employers span pharmaceuticals, software, cleantech, and biotechnology, and thousands of new jobs and billions in investment continue to be announced annually in Wake County alone. Global companies continue to invest in the region. Notable mentions include Apple, which committed $1 billion to a future RTP campus; FUJIFILM Diosynth Biotechnologies, which announced a $3.2 billion expansion; and Novo Nordisk, which announced a $4.1 billion investment.

CONSISTENT EMPLOYMENT GROWTH

The Triangle continues to experience steady employment growth and low unemployment. As of early 2026, the Raleigh area unemployment rate is approximately 3.0%, remaining below the national average. The region's strong labor market, population growth, and highly skilled workforce continue to support long-term economic expansion and rising incomes.
