PROPERTY & LOCALE

Cook Street Medical Building is a 3-storey professional centre located at 1175 Cook Street between View Street and Fort Street, with street and onsite parking options available, including daily paid parking in an upper lot, and an underground secured parking lot available for tenants and monthly parkers. The parking lots are managed by Robbin's Parking, whose head office is next to the building, and lower monthly parking rates specifically for tenants are available. The building is handicap-accessible with elevator servicing all levels, and ramp access to the courtyard. Built in 1963 with an additional East-wing structure built in 1980, this building is well maintained with several recent upgrades, and is professionally managed.

With rapid development in nearby lots, the 1100 block of Cook Street continues to accommodate growth in its community, including a new 15-storey condominium building across from the subject property, and a new development going up down the block, offering ample opportunity for new business from newly migrated locals.
