AREA OVERVIEW

Inglewood is a gateway to major commercial centers of the United States and internationally, Inglewood is in a unique position on the shore of the Pacific Rim. The Los Angeles International Airport is directly accessible by Inglewood's Century Boulevard - one of the City's busiest commercial corridors. Proximity to the airport, the Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors, and four major freeways facilitate both domestic and international trade.

Has transformed from a mature inner-ring suburb into one of Southern California's fastest-evolving entertainment and sports destinations. The city has attracted billions of dollars in private investment over the past decade, anchored by major sports, entertainment, residential, and infrastructure projects. Nationally recognized sports and entertainment hub. The combination of Hollywood Park, SoFi Stadium, Intuit Dome, airport proximity, and Olympic-related infrastructure spending creates a compelling long-term investment story. For retail, multifamily, hospitality, and mixed-use investors, Inglewood remains one of the strongest urban redevelopment markets in Southern California, with growth supported by both private capital and public infrastructure investments.

Population & Demographics

Approximately 105,000–110,000 residents, Inglewood is located within the greater Los Angeles metropolitan area of more than 13 million people with a large workforce base and strong regional commuter traffic.
