MARKET SUMMARY

21945 CARNEROS LAKE LANE
SONOMA, CA

STATE-OF-THE-ART INDUSTRIAL FACILITY

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Sonoma sits at the intersection of California's most productive agricultural land and one of its most resilient regional economies. Unemployment remains among the lowest in the state, and the county's diverse economic base — anchored by wine and food production, a growing healthcare sector, and an expanding professional services industry — supports hundreds of thousands of jobs across industries that depend on reliable warehousing, logistics, and distribution infrastructure to function. That base creates consistent, durable demand for exactly the kind of large-format industrial space this property offers. The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has formally designated working and industrial lands as critical infrastructure under a multi-year economic action plan, signaling long-term institutional commitment to the policies and zoning frameworks that protect and support facilities like this one.

LOCATION

8th Street East is the industrial core of Sonoma — the corridor where the city's working commercial economy is concentrated and where serious operators have historically landed when they need functional space at scale. The street runs through an established district of warehouse, distribution, and light industrial users, supported by the infrastructure, zoning, and access that define a true industrial corridor rather than a retrofit or compromise. Highway 12 access connects operators quickly to Highway 121 and the broader Bay Area network to the south, while the city's services, labor pool, and amenities remain minutes away. Within Sonoma, there is no better-positioned industrial address — and with supply as constrained as it is, an asset of 62,000 square feet on 8th Street East is not something the market replaces quickly.
