University City, Missouri, is a vibrant, diverse community of about 35,000 at the heart of the St. Louis Metropolitan area. With dozens of churches and synagogues; parks; numerous community organizations; and active entertainment and restaurant districts, University City has something for everyone in the family. Perhaps the most well-known part of University City is the U-City Loop, a vibrant six-block entertainment, restaurant and shopping district that expands into the city of St. Louis. The American Planning Association named the Loop "One of the 10 Great Streets in America."

The U-City Loop is home to a variety of long-established and newer-to-the-scene businesses that give this street its unique personality. A significant amount of development and investment has recently occurred in the area, including Washington University ($80+ million), COCA ($25 million), and The Everly ($60 million). There are 140 specialty shops in the Loop, and 17 countries are represented in the variety of restaurant that call the area home.
