Coming Soon: Meow Wolf

Meow Wolf, renowned American arts and entertainment company, known for their large-scale interactive and immersive art installations is opening a new permanent location at HHLA in 2026.

The Los Angeles venue has been described as a “maximalist fantasy” inspired by the city’s history of filmmaking, with a focus on cinematic themes and local artists.

“For years we’ve made trips to Los Angeles, dreaming of creating something in its layered and ever-changing network of creativity,” said Sean Di Ianni, Meow Wolf’s cofounder and the senior creative director of the L.A. location, in a statement. “L.A. is more than a physical place; it extends deep into the global landscape of human imagination, constantly pushing its own bounds. Meow Wolf Los Angeles will stretch these cinematic horizons by weaving together an unpredictable tapestry of art, story and interactivity.”

“This is more than an immersive experience,” added Jose Tolosa, CEO of Meow Wolf. “We want it to be a part of the city’s ongoing narrative of growth. Being in Los Angeles, the entertainment capital of the world, we’re humbled to add to the dynamic interplay between art and entertainment here. Meow Wolf Los Angeles will blur the lines between reality and fantasy, inviting everyone to become part of a living, breathing spectacle.”
