Executive Summary

Newmark, as exclusive advisor, is pleased to present the opportunity to acquire 6728 Thomson Court (the Property), a newly constructed, fully stabilized 5-unit multifamily asset located in the supply-constrained Linda Vista submarket of central San Diego, California.

Completed in 2024, the Property offers a rare combination of brand-new construction, a premium large-format unit mix, and immediate income — all in one of San Diego's most centrally located and supply-constrained submarkets. As a newly constructed asset, 6728 Thomson Court is exempt from California's AB 1482 statewide rent control provisions for 15 years from completion, providing investors exceptional flexibility for future rent growth.

The Property consists of five residences: two 3-bedroom/3-bathroom townhome-style units at approximately 1,200 SF with private balconies featuring sweeping canyon and ocean views, two 2-bedroom/1-bathroom units at 750 SF, and one detached private studio at 254 SF. Each residence features luxury finishes including quartz waterfall countertops, stainless steel appliances, in-unit washer/dryer, split-system HVAC, and private outdoor space.

Current in-place gross income totals $16,075/month ($192,900 annualized), with a pro forma of $16,600/month ($200,400 annualized) at market rents. The Property is offered at $2,450,000 which represents a 5.53% current cap rate (5.82% pro forma), $490,000/unit, and $590/SF.

Location Overview

Located in the Linda Vista submarket, 6728 Thomson Court offers fast regional access via I-8, I-5, and SR-163, placing Mission Valley and Downtown within easy reach. The Green Line trolley at Morena/Linda Vista and frequent MTS service along Linda Vista Road provide reliable links to Old Town, Fashion Valley, and key employment hubs. San Diego International Airport is typically a 10–15 minute drive.

Nearby conveniences include Fashion Valley and Westfield Mission Valley for retail, dining, and entertainment. The Mission Valley big-box cluster adds Costco, IKEA, and Target, with groceries such as Vons, Trader Joe's, and Sprouts close by. Banks, pharmacies, fitness studios, and professional services are readily available in Linda Vista, the Morena District, and Mission Valley.

Dining options range from Old Town San Diego State Historic Park to the acclaimed Convoy District, while the Morena/Bay Park corridor offers casual cafés and craft-beverage spots. The Mission Valley Riverwalk redevelopment is adding riverfront recreation, retail, and events.

Outdoor recreation is abundant, from hiking and biking in Tecolote Canyon to the beaches, paths, and water sports of Mission Bay Park; SeaWorld, Presidio Park, the San Diego River Trail, and Balboa Park are also close. Education anchors the area with the University of San Diego minutes away and SD Unified schools and San Diego Mesa College nearby, while major healthcare campuses at UC San Diego Health, Sharp, Rady Children's, and Scripps Mercy are within a short drive.

San Diego Market Overview

San Diego's multifamily fundamentals are anchored by one of the most supply-constrained, high-demand environments in the country. A diversified employment base — defense, life sciences, biotech, healthcare, and tech — drives consistent high-wage job growth, while UC San Diego, SDSU, and USD generate a deep, recurring renter pool that largely stays in the market post-graduation.

Desirability is self-evident: Mediterranean climate, coastal access, and quality of life keep in-migration steady and turnover low. With median home prices north of $900,000, homeownership is out of reach for the majority of households — even high earners — making renting the long-term reality for most residents. The income data here supports that demand directly.

Supply tells the rest of the story. Coastal geography, restrictive entitlement, and high construction costs keep new deliveries chronically below demand, protecting occupancy and underpinning long-term rent growth.
