OKC MARKET OVERVIEW

OKLAHOMA CITY MARKET REPORT

THE YEAR OF OPTIMISM

Optimism is growing for Oklahoma City's commercial real estate market in 2025. The past few years brought challenges. COVID-19, high interest rates, and election-year uncertainty created hurdles. Now, key trends point to recovery.

The office sector saw positive absorption in 2024, with a strong start and end to the year, though activity remained uneven. Interest among buyers and sellers grew after the Federal Reserve cut rates in September. State and federal mandates and those from the private sector requiring employees to return to the office full-time are driving demand.

The industrial sector stayed active in leasing. Sales slowed due to high interest rates, which eased in the fourth quarter. A U.S. manufacturing resurgence and investment in onshoring should boost demand this year. Slower construction in 2024 will help absorb Class A vacancies.

The retail sector expanded with projects like The Oak, which added a boutique hotel, luxury apartments, and new dining and retail options, including new-to-market brands. However, uncertainty remains about the impact of national chain restaurants and big-box store closures on the local market.

The multifamily sector saw total sales of $121 million in 2024, down from 2023. The fourth quarter brought a strong surge, with $37 million in deals. Buyers and sellers are adjusting to higher interest rates as they navigate changing conditions, although rental and occupancy numbers remain strong across all property classes.

Overall, 2025 looks promising as rate cuts, government mandates, and new developments drive momentum.

VIBRANCY OF OKLAHOMA CITY

ENTERTAINMENT DISTRICT | $1B

The former Producers Co-op site south of Bricktown will be home to the MAPS 4 multipurpose stadium to house the Energy FC and other events. A mixed-use development around the stadium will create a new downtown district led by Echo and Robinson Park who have partnered with NBA star Russell Westbrook.

DOWNTOWN ARENA | $1B

OKC residents voted in favor of a one-penny sales tax extension to fund $900M toward a new downtown arena for the NBA's OKC Thunder. It will be at least 750,000 SF and be built on the site of the former Cox Convention Center/Prairie Surf Studio.

THE OAK | $200M+

The mixed-use development in NW OKC includes new-to-market brands like RH (Restoration Hardware), Arhaus, Capital Grille, and others, along with a 132-room boutique hotel and 320 apartments. The project won the Urban Land Institute Oklahoma's Distinguished Merit Award.

HARLOW | $70M

Developed by Gardner Tanenbaum Holdings, The Harlow apartments will bring 265 units to the core of downtown in two former office buildings. One of the buildings will be home to the first Starbuck's in the Central Business District.

OKC 577 | $1B

A 577 acre± Master Planned park currently under construction in the heart of Oklahoma City featuring industrial, office and retail space. Contiguous sites available up to 235 acres and buildings ranging from 20,000 SF - 2M SF.

ROCK CREEK ENTERTAINMENT DISTRICT | $1.2B

The Norman City Council approved the development known as the Rock Creek Entertainment District. It will replace the Lloyd Noble Center with a new arena for the University of Oklahoma's basketball and gymnastics teams. The arena will also host concerts, shows, and other performances.

THE HALF | $200M

The development in NW OKC continues to add tenants and amenities. It is home to the headquarters of Dolese Bros., Chicken N Pickle, Flix Brewhouse, 325-unit BroadVue apartments. A 140-room Skyline Hotel, Andretti Indoor Karting & Games, OnCue, Pop Stroke, and Belle Isle Enterprise High School will be included as well.

THE ROBINSON | $60M

Developer Gardner Tanenbaum Holdings bought the Robinson Renaissance office building at auction for $10M with plans to convert it to apartments, while keeping a law firm tenant and retail on the lower level and first two floors.

CONVERGENCE | $146M

Mixed-use development, positioned as the heart of Oklahoma City's Innovation District, secured on a 5.5 acre site near NE 8th Street and I-235. The development includes an Innovation & Research Tower, a two-level, below-grade parking garage, Stiles Park and Oklahoma City's MAPS 4 Innovation Hall.

OKANA | $400M

The Horizon District just east of I-35 and south of I-40 along the Oklahoma River is home to the First Americans Museum and the OKANA water park and 404-room resort. 13 restaurant and retail stores and its first-class spa and wellness facility leave nothing to be desired. The 10-year projected economic impact is more than $1B.

ALLEY NORTH | $115M

Developed by Rose Rock Development Partners, the project at NW 13th Street and Broadway Avenue will house architectural, engineering and planning firm Guernsey's new headquarters for its 150 employees with plans for 214-unit multifamily project and retail.

BOOMBOX BEACH CLUB | $45M

Indoor and outdoor volleyball facility in the Adventure District. Includes 10 hard-surface courts, five outdoor sand courts, and eight indoor sand courts. Also includes 16 indoor and four outdoor pickleball courts. Additional phases will bring retail, restaurants, and a hotel.

COST OF LIVING INDEX Medium HH Income

OKC's cost of living is 17.7% below the U.S. standard. The median household income is $70,264. For the same standard of living in Denver one would have to make $90,044 and $93,851 in Chicago.

INDUSTRY DIVERSITY

Local, state, and federal government jobs make up the largest share of employment, highlighting the importance of public sector work. While the energy sector is the largest industry in the state, oil and gas jobs account for only about 1% of employment. However, these jobs contribute significantly to the economy, making up 16.2% of total statewide household income.
