Description

The Strathcarron Hotel is a substantial and characterful Victorian property, built in 1880 to serve the Highland railway between Inverness and Kyle of Lochalsh. Today, it operates as a well-established, budget-friendly business, combining traditional charm with modern amenities.

Ideally located on the A890 and adjacent to Strathcarron railway station, the hotel occupies a prime position on a key tourist route to the Isle of Skye and the North West Highlands. It benefits from strong passing trade, particularly from visitors travelling the North Coast 500 and Skye routes. The surrounding area offers spectacular scenery, with dramatic mountain views and Loch Carron attracting visitors year-round.

The hotel features 10 en-suite guest rooms, complemented by a welcoming bar, lounge, and café-restaurant serving a selection of local and international dishes, along with craft ales, wines, and spirits. Additional on-site amenities include a games room, beer garden, free Wi-Fi, ample parking, and 24-hour access.

The property is particularly well suited to campervan and motorhome travellers, offering a paddock with dedicated facilities, as well as separate shower and toilet amenities within the hotel.

Further enhancing its appeal, there is an informal arrangement for a Post Office service to operate from reception for two hours per week, reinforcing the hotel's role as a valued community hub.

Overall, this is a rare opportunity to acquire a well-located, established Highland hotel with strong seasonal trade and clear potential for future growth.

Trade

The Strathcarron Hotel operates a well-established café, bar, and restaurant with a strong reputation, reflected in its Tripadvisor rating of 4.2 ("Good"). The catering offering focuses on freshly prepared dishes using locally sourced ingredients, combining traditional Scottish favourites with a selection of international cuisine. Guests can also enjoy a range of local craft ales, wines, and spirits, enhancing the overall dining experience.

Positioned as a welcoming and budget-friendly destination, the hotel consistently attracts a high level of occupancy, appealing to a broad mix of travellers seeking quality accommodation at accessible price points.

The business currently trades approximately 5.5 days per week over a 7.5-month season, operating an efficient and profitable model with clear potential to extend opening hours and increase year-round revenue.

Facilities are designed to cater to a diverse customer base, including residents, tourists, walkers, cyclists, and touring visitors. Campervans and motorhomes are welcomed, with breakfast available to both residents and non-resident guests. Food service operates daily from 10:00am–2:00pm and 6:00pm–8:00pm, while the bar is open from 10:00am–10:00pm.

On-site amenities include free Wi-Fi, a games area with pool and darts, board games, a beer garden, and ample free parking. The property benefits from direct access to the scenic North Highland railway line and is ideally positioned for exploring nearby destinations such as Applecross, Torridon, and the Isle of Skye. A nearby petrol station and convenience store further enhance convenience for visitors.

The hotel also presents strong additional income potential through private functions, including birthdays, meetings, and events, providing further scope for business growth.

In addition, there is an agreed proposal (subject to final contract) with Tesla, Inc. for the installation of three Superchargers on-site, in exchange for a 10-year lease of the required area. All installation and associated costs will be fully funded by Tesla. This development is expected to significantly increase footfall, while enhancing the hotel's visibility and overall trading performance.

Reason For Sale

After refurbishing and developing the business since 2020, the owner is now looking to pass it on to a new custodian in order to pursue a new venture.

Location

Strathcarron is a small, scenic Highland village situated in one of Scotland's most dramatic and unspoilt landscapes, set between steep mountain ranges and overlooking Loch Carron. Positioned on the A890 and directly served by Strathcarron railway station on the iconic Kyle of Lochalsh line, it offers excellent transport links despite its rural setting.

The location sits at a key junction for tourism, acting as a gateway between
