Retailers Embrace Efficiency with Smaller, Drive-Thru Only Formats

Starbucks, Take 5 Oil Change, 7 Brew, Wawa are just a few examples.

By Will Wamble | December 02, 2025

Recently there has been a proliferation of smaller prototype and drive-thru only format tenants in retail real estate. There are a wide range of retailers involved in this heightened trend including oil change companies, quick service restaurants (QSRs), and multiple coffee concepts, among others. Some specific brands include Starbucks, Take 5 Oil Change, 7 Brew, Wawa, Caribou Coffee, Scooter's, Salad and Go, Smalls Sliders, Jimmy John's, Checkers, Elliano's, Greenlane, Tim Hortons, and The Human Bean. Other QSRs like Chick-Fil-A, McDonald's, Chipotle, Taco Bell, and Portillo's have also recently experimented with drive-thru only models and buildings. Typically, the building size for this format is about 1,500 square feet (sf) or less.

Drive-thru only buildings enable retailers to maximize operational efficiencies by reducing facilities management expenses and labor costs. They also allow for increased customer convenience and accommodate shifting consumer preferences by streamlining digital and mobile ordering. Building construction is less capital intensive for both landlords and tenants with a lot of these users starting to incorporate prefabricated buildings in their designs. The smaller building footprints allow operators to establish a presence in denser, infill markets which otherwise have high barriers to entry.

In addition to the above efficiencies, smaller building footprints help landowners maximize value of smaller parcels. For example, most traditional QSRs typically require 1.25 to 1.5 acres while, a majority of the newer drive-thru only concepts can utilize three-fourths of an acre or less. This allows developers or landowners to optimize smaller parcels and, in some cases, they can accommodate an additional tenant. Landowners aren't sacrificing much on annual rents since retailers are willing to pay higher rents for smaller buildings in order to be in prime locations that might have otherwise been unattainable. These tenants are typically creditworthy and willing to sign long-term absolute net leases or ground leases. If the property owner intends to sell the property, this helps them to attain attractive cap rates when selling the stabilized properties to investors seeking passive income.

LAWRENCEVILLE, GEORGIA

Lawrenceville is a city in and the county seat of Gwinnett County, Georgia, in the United States. It is a suburb of Atlanta, located approximately 30 miles (48 km) northeast of downtown. The City of Lawrenceville had a population of 33,172 as of July 1, 2025.

Lawrenceville's economy is diverse, supported by healthcare, education, retail, local government, and professional services. The city is home to Northside Hospital Gwinnett, one of the region's largest medical employers, as well as a growing cluster of specialty clinics and health services. Government jobs and court services contribute significantly, as Lawrenceville is the seat of Gwinnett County operations. The city's revitalized Downtown Lawrenceville has become a hub for restaurants, coworking spaces, and small businesses. Its proximity to major highways such as I-85 and Highway 316 supports commuting and logistics, while the area's growing population continues to drive residential development and consumer spending.

Lawrenceville offers a mix of cultural, recreational, and historic attractions. Downtown Lawrenceville features restored architecture, locally owned shops, and a thriving dining scene. The Aurora Theatre, one of Georgia's premier performing arts venues, draws visitors from across the metro area. Residents enjoy green spaces like Rhodes Jordan Park and Tribble Mill Park, which offer walking trails, lakes, and sports facilities. Community events such as concerts, food truck Fridays, and seasonal festivals help foster a strong local identity. The city is also just a short drive from Stone Mountain Park and other regional attractions.

Lawrenceville is home to Gwinnett's only public airport, Gwinnett County Airport-Briscoe Field.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Atlanta City Founded in 1837 as Marthasville, Atlanta is the largest city in Georgia, as well as the state's capital. Atlanta is located in north/central Georgia. Atlanta was founded in 1837 as Marthasville at the end of the Western & Atlantic railroad line. It was officially incorporated as Atlanta in 1847. Atlanta, city, capital of Georgia, U.S., and seat of Fulton county (but also partly in DeKalb county). It lies in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains in the northwestern part of the state, just southeast of the Chattahoochee River. It is the centre of an extensive metropolitan area that includes 20 counties and cities such as Decatur, East Point, and Marietta. The City of Atlanta is the largest city in Georgia with a population of 518,107 as of 2025.

Atlanta is Georgia's largest city and the principal trade and transportation center of the southeastern United States. Atlanta remains the financial and commercial capital of the Southeast and is its most important distribution center. Printing and publishing, high-technology industries, telecommunications, airline services, military and government services, and banking and insurance are supplemented by industries producing aircraft, beverages, automobiles, electronics and electrical equipment, chemicals, processed foods, and paper products.

It is home to over 10 Fortune 500 companies, including household names such as The Coca-Cola Company, Delta Airlines, Home Depot, and UPS. In fact, as of 2005, the Atlanta metropolitan area was ranked third behind New York and Houston on the list of cities with the most Fortune 500 headquarters. Atlanta is also the focus of federal government activity in the Southeast and is the headquarters of the 6th Federal Reserve District. Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport (ATL) has served as a key engine of the city's economic growth. Delta Air Lines, the city's largest employer and the metro area's third-largest, operates the world's largest airline hub at Hartsfield-Jackson, and it has helped make it the world's busiest airport, in terms of both passenger traffic and aircraft operations.
