ABOUT THE NEIGHBORHOOD: FRANKFORD

Aerial Map of Neighborhood: Frankford

Frankford has long been a melting pot of cultures. The neighborhood is home to many historic homes, schools, cemeteries, and churches. Located about seven miles northeast of Center City, Frankford residents enjoy a slightly slower pace than downtown neighborhoods without feeling too suburban. Viewed by some as a diamond in the rough, Frankford offers a lower cost of living than much of the city and good access to public transportation.

Frankford Avenue runs through the center of the neighborhood and is home to several retailers, restaurants, and cafes. The Market-Frankford Line (MFL) follows this street, shuttling passengers to Center City in under 30 minutes. Delaware Expressway is accessible from the southern border. Homeowners on the west end of Frankford are closer to Tacony Creek Park and Juniata Golf Course.

Frankford celebrates its diverse population and that's evidenced in the food you can enjoy here. You'll find cuisine options like Jamaican, Chinese, soul, Italian, and American comfort food at late-night spots, take-out restaurants, and old-school diners.

Frankford isn't known for nightlife but you'll find a few bars and lounges along Frankford Avenue and Bridge Street. Just northeast of the neighborhood, Grey Lodge Pub is a relaxed haunt with a friendly atmosphere. Locals rave about the wide selection of craft beers. A bowling alley can also be found just north of Frankford.

The neighborhood is home to families, professionals who commute downtown, and older generations who've settled the neighborhood. Locals frequent small businesses and attend community events.
