Rare Development Opportunity for
Single Tenant or QSR

Situated at a high-visibility location in one of Madison County's established retail corridors, 385 Hughes Road presents a compelling opportunity for a quick-service restaurant, single-tenant, or similar commercial user. The 1.14-acre site offers sufficient land area to accommodate a new prototype build with drive-through stacking, dedicated parking, and landscaping. The site includes an existing structure, with any demolition and redevelopment decisions remaining at the discretion of the buyer or ground lease tenant, allowing an incoming operator or developer to deliver a ground-up build tailored to current brand prototypes and operational requirements.

The trade area surrounding 385 Hughes Road is among the most active retail nodes in the Madison-Huntsville metro. Positioned directly across from a Publix-anchored center, blocks from Bob Jones HS, and flanked by established national and regional operators—including Burger King, Applebee's, Eggs Up Grill, and Lawler's Barbeque—the site benefits from proven food-and-beverage traffic generation and strong co-tenancy. Additional neighboring uses include fitness, financial services, and a public library, further driving consistent daily traffic (18,995 VPD) from a broad and diverse consumer base. The demographics within a 3-mile radius reflect an affluent, dense suburban population with an average household income well above national benchmarks, making the site particularly well-suited for a QSR or fast-casual concept targeting quality-conscious, convenience-driven guests.
