WHITE OAK TECHNOLOGY PARK

The park occupies a prime position along the I-95 corridor, just minutes from Richmond International Airport and the Richmond Marine Terminal — putting your operations at the crossroads of mid-Atlantic commerce.

The park is built for businesses that demand serious infrastructure. Four-lane access to major highways and approximately 470 delineated developable acres give you the room and connectivity to scale on your timeline.

The company you'll keep here speaks for itself. White Oak is already home to major corporations including QTS, Hewlett-Packard, and Meta (Facebook), along with Bank of America— and the park continues to attract global names. QTS also operates a network access point on campus that connects, through Virginia Beach landing stations, to subsea internet cables originating in Europe and South America, making White Oak a true global connectivity hub.

Your bottom line benefits too. Henrico County slashed property taxes for technology facilities by nearly 90%, from $3.50 per $100 of assessed value down to $0.40 — one of the most competitive rate structures in the region. All of this, just 14 miles from downtown Richmond.
