The Palm Bay area continues to see tremendous growth and is the 18th hottest housing market in the nation currently. This is bolstered by the fact that AGI in this market is $79,649 on average—higher than all other Central Florida counties by a significant margin. High paying jobs in tech, space exploration, and defense bring in new residents from all over Florida, but also the west coast and north east. Kennedy Space Center’s transition to allow multiple users to launch means they have 90 private sector relationships with various businesses and government contractors. This has led to Brevard County’s continued growth in real GDP.

Housing has continued to trend west in a long, narrow county. New homes along St. John’s are being built at a rapid pace to provide a place for new workers. The Heritage Square Publix will sit at a prominent intersection to serve the current Malabar Road community and ample new developments to the north along St. Johns Heritage Pkwy.
